the polymarket network effect has reached escape velocity.

regulatory adoption was delayable (and acquirable), capturing trading volume, international market share and cultural mind share was not. kalshi walked so polymarket could run.

no trading fees and no revenue isn't a bug, it's a feature in service of growth and deeper liquidity.

polymarket is truly antifragile. trump tariffs? war in iran? the world's eyeballs go to X and now polymarket.

with every news cycle & trending event, the team trojan-horses the platform into the conversation.

the world is moving toward tokenizing everything and forming a unified market where liquidity converges. prediction markets fit this thesis perfectly, as they exist for nearly anything imaginable.

polymarket is becoming the market's common denominator, connected in one way or another to every asset class.

we see polymarket not only becoming the future of news, but also vital infrastructure for the future of financial markets.

to the team: if we can be useful, reach out :) happy to help integrate across synergetic ecosystems. members of our team and investor base have backed revolut, brex, toss, n26, and others at their growth stage, and we work closely with the family office of india's leading proprietary trading firm and market maker.

the network effect @shayne_coplan is building at @Polymarket is on a generational run.
